The screenshot shows the Wikipedia editor interface. At the top, there is a message: "This page is 114 kilobytes long. It may be appropriate to split this article into smaller, more specific articles. See Wikipedia:Article size." Below this is a toolbar with various editing options like Bold (B), Italic (I), and a "Format" dropdown. The main editing area contains the text "== Heading text ==". On the right side, there is a "Table of Contents" (TOC) sidebar with a "Hide contents" link at the top. The TOC lists "Baseball" and "Heading text", with "Heading text" being the current page's heading.

Keep the cursor at the end of the header and add another

It gets added to the same line but shows the two levels in the NTOC. In other browsers when we do the same it get added to the next line.
