

When there are text in the editor, then the behavior of number lists changes

IE7

```
==Later life==

Living a life in quiet retirement, Yoshinobu indulged in many hobbies, including oi painting, archery, hunting, photography, and even cycling.<ref>Tokugawa, p. 136-
138.</ref> Some of Yoshinobu's photographs have been published in recent years by h
grandson, [[Tokugawa Yoshitomo|Yoshitomo]].<ref>For an example of Yoshinobu's photc
a Yoshitomo, ''Tokugawa Yoshinobu-ke e yōkoso'', p. 73.</ref>

In 1902, the [[Meiji Emperor]] allowed him to reestablish his own house as a Tokuge
) with the highest rank in the peerage, that of prince (''kōshaku''), for his loyal
ef>Takano, p. 273.</ref> Prince Tokugawa Yoshinobu [peer] died on November 21, 1913

His ninth daughter '''Tokugawa Tsuneko''' (1882-
1939), married [[Prince Fushimi Hiroyasu]] (a second cousin to both [[Hirohito|Empe
]] and [[Empress Kōjun]], and nephew of [[Prince Kan'in Kotohito]]) on [[9 January]

#
Numbered list item
Numbered list item|
```

Opera

```
B I [undo] [redo] [print] ▾ Advanced ▸ Special characters ▸ Help
Heading ▾ List [bulleted] [numbered] [checkbox] Size A+ A- Baseline A^ A_ Insert [table] [link] [image] [code]
==Later life==

Living a life in quiet retirement, Yoshinobu indulged in many hobbies, including oi painting, archery, hunting, photography, and even cycling.<ref>Tokugawa, p. 136-
138.</ref> Some of Yoshinobu's photographs have been published in recent years by h
grandson, [[Tokugawa Yoshitomo|Yoshitomo]].<ref>For an example of Yoshinobu's photc
a Yoshitomo, ''Tokugawa Yoshinobu-ke e yōkoso'', p. 73.</ref>

In 1902, the [[Meiji Emperor]] allowed him to reestablish his own house as a Tokuge
) with the highest rank in the peerage, that of prince (''kōshaku''), for his loyal
ef>Takano, p. 273.</ref> Prince Tokugawa Yoshinobu [peer] died on November 21, 1913

His ninth daughter '''Tokugawa Tsuneko''' (1882-
1939), married [[Prince Fushimi Hiroyasu]] (a second cousin to both [[Hirohito|Empe
]] and [[Empress Kōjun]], and nephew of [[Prince Kan'in Kotohito]]) on [[9 January]

#
Numbered list item
Numbered list item
```

But if I try again it shows normally.

Opera in Mac

Even I place the cursor at the end of the text, list get added in top

