Version 1

What would you expect to see, when clicking "Languages", the cog wheel or "Language Settings for "More Languages""?

Check the back of the page and see what would actually happen.

Version 1

This is what would pop up on each of the three elements to click. The question is: Where is the best spot to put it so users also know it will apply for future language boxes?

Status quo

Currently users get shown the languages they saved in their Babel Box (when logged in), a selection of geolocated languages (when not logged in) or all entered languages. But sometimes people are just interested in reading specific languages rather than entering a new language in their Babel Box to have them shown up for following items.

Look at version 2 to find another approach.

Thanks a lot for taking your time!

Version 2

Mark to show pinned languages in future language boxes.

[Other Languages ▼]

What would you expect to happen, when clicking on the pin in each language line?

Check the back of the page and find out what would actually happen.

Version 2

Through the drop down "Other Languages" the users have the possibility to select and show one more language. If they wish to see one of the languages in following language boxes, they can check the pins or uncheck them if they don't want to see them anymore. The tooltip on "Pin" and the pin icon itself gives more clarity of what happens when pinning or unpinning languages.

Please mark, if the versions work for you (no need to decide for a favorite version)

Version 1 (overall pop up idea)   ▫ works fine   ▫ doesn't work / I don't understand

- icon + "Language" (1)   mark which position of the button works best for you (1), (2) or (3)
- cog wheel (2)
- Language settings for "More Languages" (3)

Version 2 (add organically and pin)   ▫ works fine   ▫ doesn't work / I don't understand
